A Special Dream

In the early days of the Women's Federation for World Peace, one woman had an unusual dream:

She dreamt of Moses and the tablets of stone. Moses took her by the hand and wanted to lead her to the innermost room of the temple, there where the tablets of stone were kept. The woman hesitated, for this place was usually only permitted to be visited by priests. But Moses pacified her and she went with him. How surprised she was when she discovered that only one tablet of stone was written on, and the other was empty!

"What does this mean?" she asked Moses. "The Tablets of Stone represent man und woman; the men have already written their story, now it is up to you women to write your story." The woman looked at Moses: "Who is my teacher? Who tells me what I should write?" Moses answered: "Your life is your teacher".

Today we too are in the situation of inscribing the empty Tablets of Stone, to write history, to discover the truth for ourselves and to live it.

We have come here together, motivated by the longing for world-wide peace. Our wish is to write a history of peace on the empty tablets of stone.
